ASCAP sues five more operators, BMI plans similar action

Five lawsuits for copyright infringement against jukebox operators for failure to comply with the compulsory license of the new copyright law have been brought by members of the American Society of Composers, Authors, and Publishers (ASCAP).

These suits, brought against operators in Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio, and Pennsylvania, follow ASCAP's recent resolution of infringement claims against a New York jukebox operator in the first such suit under the new copyright law.

Failure to obtain the compulsory license subjects the jukebox operator to full liability for infringement under the copyright law. If a court finds infringement has occurred, damages for each song performed range from $250 to $10,000.

The operators sued in the five actions are as follows: North American Interstate, Inc. of Berkley, Michigan; Thiesen Vending, Inc. and Thiesen Music Company, Inc. of Burnsville, Minnesota; DVM, Inc. and Dahlco Music and Vending Company of St. Paul, Minnesota; Sanford Brown & Carl Brown, individually and d/b/a, Cleveland, Ohio; and Gerardo P. Marchese, individually and d/b/a, Export, Pennsylvania.

In the first lawsuit, the jukebox operator, Paramount Cigarette and Entertainment Corp of New York City, was reportedly required to pay ASCAP an undisclosed sum "in four figures," in addition to registering its jukeboxes under the compulsory jukebox copyright law.

BMI, another performing rights society, last month advertised that it too would "begin taking legal action against unregistered jukeboxes and operators who are infringing upon those [copyright] rights."

In its announcement, BMI added that "these actions may begin rather abruptly."

The responsibility for uncovering those in violation with the new law rests not with the federal government but rather with the three performing rights societies—ASCAP, SESAC, and BMI.

In a related matter, the U.S. Copyright Office has mailed to all those operators who registered their jukeboxes last year the application forms for re-registering their boxes again this year. The licenses which operators purchased last year expired December 31. Those who still haven't received their forms for their 1979 licenses should write the Licensing Division, U.S. Copyright Office, Library of Congress, Washington, D.C. 20557.

Williams heartened by AMOA reception

Williams Electronics, Inc.'s "flashy" display at the A.M.O.A. convention in Chicago in November has Williams executives confident the firm will begin 1979 with a surge and continue the momentum achieved in the past year.

Highlighted by the introduction of the flipper Flash (which is scheduled for production this spring) amid flashing strobe lights and a new, colorful island exhibit, the Williams A.M.O.A. display also featured a special talking pinball machine, the new widebody flipper Pokerino, the eye-catching flipper Phoenix, the new shuffle alley Pompeii and the latest William pinball offerings Contact and Disco Fever. Colorful Williams T-shirts and stickers also were distributed to booth visitors.

"The exhibit was packed with people from the moment we opened at noon on Friday until closing at 4 p.m. Sunday," stated Williams President Michael Stroll. "In fact, people still were lined up playing the games when we had to shut down."

Williams' A.M.O.A. show weekend was capped with a cocktail party and buffet for special company guests at the Continental Plaza Hotel in Chicago.

Flashing lights and a new colorful island booth attracted crowds to Williams' exhibit and game display at the A.M.O.A. Show in Chicago in November.

Stern promotes four to vice president posts

Stern Electronics, Inc. has announced the promotion of four department directors to positions as vice presidents.

Larry Siegel, formerly of Pacific International Amusements, a San Francisco-based operations company, has been named vice president of sales and administration. Siegel, a native of southern California, has a long history in the coin machine industry. He has been employed by Segasa, Madrid, and Williams Electronics, and with these companies, was primarily concerned with European distribution. During the past four years, Siegel owned and operated Pacific International Amusements and The Original Juke Box and Pinball Store, a San Francisco-based home sale company.

Heading up marketing activities, Stephen Kaufman has been named vice president of marketing.

Alex Darnell, as head of plant operations, has been named vice president of manufacturing.

Marty Rosenthal will direct the design and engineering departments as vice president of engineering.

These vice presidents have already assumed their new duties, joining Sam Stern, executive vice president, and Gary Stern, president of the Chicago-based company.

Gary Stern said, "The elevation of these four fine individuals to our top administration will add to the expertise, efficiency and success of Stern Electronics."

John Neven is comptroller and Roger Lundine is director of purchasing for Stern.

Bally gets favorable decision

Bally has received a favorable decision from the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection for the demolition of the rotunda tower of Bally's Blenheim Hotel in Atlantic City, New Jersey.

According to Bally's chairman, William T. O'Donnell, "this favorable decision on behalf of Bally will now allow the company to expand its Atlantic City casino to 80,000 square feet during the second phase of its building program from the initial 60,000 square feet with which the casino will open."

O'Donnell concluded by noting that "Bally is currently building the foundation for its 510 room Atlantic City hotel and 60,000 square foot casino with current construction on schedule for an opening on or about July 1, 1979, or less than seven months from today."
